WaitListFit

BRAND KIT / VERSION 2.0 / 16 OCTOBER 2026

Time, made visible. Decisions, kept human.

A clear identity for specialty clinic capacity. The selected split-flap hero meets a calm mint-blue atmosphere and the precision of a berth timetable.

DEPARTURE BOARD HERO

CLINICAL CALM BACKGROUND

BERTH SCHEDULE SYSTEM

What WaitListFit stands for

Make specialty appointment capacity visible before a scheduler fills the slot.

Buyer: Specialty-practice COO or ambulatory access director.
Daily operator: Scheduler manager.
First validation audience: Practice administrators, access departments and practice-management consultants.

THE BRAND IN THREE WORDS

Precise

Time and constraints are legible.

Calm

The interface leaves room to think.

Accountable

A named person owns the next step.

PRIMARY INVITATION

Request a one-week replay

Research-stage concept. The first offer is a read-only cancellation-fill candidate queue with scheduler approval.

The open-berth mark

PRIMARY

MONO-INK

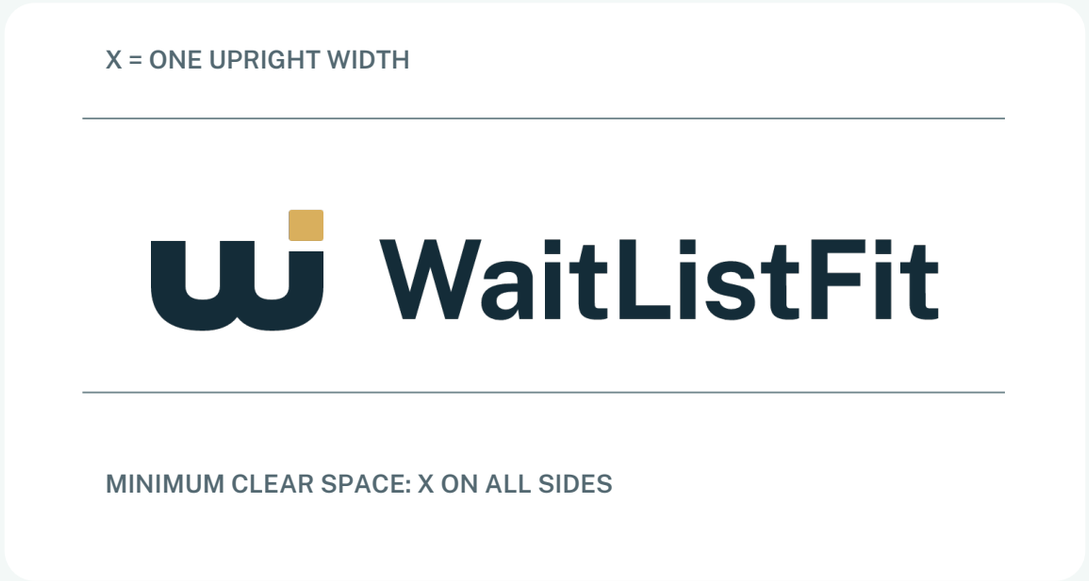

REVERSE

MONO-WHITE

Two open berths form a W. The amber tile connects appointment fit to the status board. These clean vector masters supersede the generated PNG concept; the wordmark is standardized in Public Sans Bold.

Keep the mark clear

Minimum sizes

Horizontal logo: 160 px wide on screen; 32 mm in print.
Standalone symbol: 24 px wide.
Favicon: use the dedicated 16 / 32 / 48 px assets.
Below 160 px: switch to the symbol rather than squeezing the wordmark.

Backgrounds

Ink + amber on white, mist, mint or sky.
White + amber on deep ink.
Use a quiet solid area behind the logo.

DO NOT

Stretch or rotate the mark. Move the amber tile. Recreate the wordmark with live text. Add shadows or gradients. Place it across a busy background curve. Use the amber tile alone as a logo.

The supplied SVG wordmarks contain outlined glyphs; recipients do not need a font installed to display the logo.

A calm field. A clear signal.

Ink	Signal amber	Sea-glass mint	Pale sky	Mist	White
#142C38	#D9AF5D	#DDECE5	#EBF3F7	#F3F8F7	#FFFFFF

Large-area balance: about 70% white / mist, 20% mint / sky, 8% ink and 2% amber. These are visual proportions, not quotas. The dark hero board is a deliberate focal exception.

Amber carries attention: the logo tile, an open slot or the pending status. Keep it scarce. Use ink text on amber; amber text on white is too weak for small labels.

Background: broad, low-contrast mint and sky curves with a near-white reading area. No hard section seams.

Color communicates a state

Type with timetable precision

PUBLIC SANS / 700

Make capacity visible.

PUBLIC SANS / 600

One cancellation. Three candidates.

Public Sans 400 keeps longer passages clear. Use short, direct sentences and generous leading. Product copy should describe the operational evidence before asking a scheduler to act.

Desktop: 64 px outer margin when space allows. Mobile: 4 columns, 20 px margins and 16 px gutters. Spacing: 4, 8, 12, 16, 24, 32, 48, 64, 96, 128 px.

Visible keyboard focus

Controls: 48 px preferred height; 44 px minimum touch target. 6 px radius, 1 px boundary. Hover: slight tonal change. Pressed: 1 px downward shift. Loading keeps the label and width.

Product panels: 12 px radius, fine rules and low shadow. Time strips use square or 4 px corners. Prefer aligned rows and explicit evidence over repeated floating cards.

Use 24 px line icons with 1.7 px strokes. Five original module icons are included. Never hide required evidence behind hover.

The hero is the exception

Keep the selected hero.
Centered headline. Dark tactile departure board. Amber status lettering. One readable state at a time.

Keep the mint-blue atmosphere.
Broad translucent curves continue behind the page. Let them become quieter as the visitor reaches detailed evidence, pricing and the inquiry form.

Use Berth Schedule everywhere else.
Grotesque headings, monospaced time labels, thin rules, strict alignment and a clinic-day strip. Use amber for the opening; retain exclusion reasons in view.

Reference image preserves the selected composition. Its earlier two-bar placeholder logo is superseded by the W logo masters in this kit.

Motion tells one operational story

01 OPEN	A 30-minute block leaves the day strip. The gap receives amber emphasis.	Scroll enters the story; 280 ms state change.
02 CHECK	Three candidate rows arrive. Room and interpreter constraints become visible.	One reveal per scroll chapter; 280 ms, 12–20 px travel.
03 REVIEW	A and B dim, but reasons remain readable. C stays pending review.	Hold this state indefinitely. Scrolling never approves.
04 SIMULATE	Only the button changes the demo to FILLED · SIMULATED.	Explicit click; 420 ms flap, max 900 ms sequence. No booking.

Native scroll. No sound or endless flipping. Pause off-screen; offer skip/pause for a long sequence. Reduced motion: static board, full reasons and the same review button. On mobile, use stacked chapters and no forced pinning.

Evidence is part of the identity

Every application feels related

FAVICON AND APP ICON

Use the full logo in navigation and documents. Use the symbol for compact app surfaces and favicons.

Social: 1200 × 630 px, with a visible concept label and a workflow-specific invitation. No invented proof or customer logos.
Export: SVG for the web and print workflows; transparent PNG for office tools; ICO / PNG / SVG for favicons.

A clear voice, with clear boundaries

USE

“See why a candidate needs review.”

“A proposed read-only queue. A scheduler reviews every next step.”

“Request a one-week replay.”

AVOID

“Automatically fills every cancellation.”

“Guaranteed savings” or unverified compliance claims.

“Trusted by…” without permission and evidence.

Offer disclosure: $900 per specialty site / month plus $2,000 setup is a hypothetical test price, not an active checkout.
Pilot gate: 8 buyer interviews, 2 export/replay commitments, 1 paid pilot letter with a named scheduler owner, plus data-access/security and human-oversight approvals.
Stop rule: stop if required resource exports are missing, or write-back is unavailable and the read-only queue adds more work than it saves.

This kit supplies design assets only. No site, analytics, outreach or production integration was deployed. Name/domain rights and trademark clearance remain unverified.
